

TÜV Middle East – Certification According to ISO 9001, ISO 14001, OHSAS 18001, ISO 22000 ... etc

The integrated management system is an excellent instrument for your corporate management. Increase your share holder, customer, employee, society ... etc confidence and satisfaction, by defining clear corporate goals and direction and lower the barriers to national and international markets.

When it comes to the certification of integrated management systems, the subject of quality alone is no longer the sole prime consideration. The focus is increasing on quality, hygiene, information security, environmental protection, occupational safety and health ... etc. Within an integrated management system all operational sequences can be described – taking into account requirements relating to all the above.

Integration is made much easier, thanks to the process of orientation of management systems based on PDCA. PAS 99 can be used as good guide for the integration of these standards. The interfaces are under optimum control and the management documentation always remains transparent and clear. Topics such as internal audits, corporate objectives and programs, document and data control and preventive and corrective actions are handled across the board.
