

Course Features

The FSSC 22000 certification scheme outlines the requirements for the audit and certification of food safety management systems (FSMS) of organizations in the food supply chain. The Scheme provides a voluntary certification model that can be applied across the entire food supply chain. Since February 2010, the Scheme has been benchmarked and recognized by the Global Food Safety Initiative (GFSI) confirming global food industry recognition and acceptance. This Course has been designed with an aim of providing an overview of the Requirements of the FSSC 22000 V5 as well as the Major Differences between FSSC 22000 V 4.1 & FSSC 22000 V 5.
